

Abstract

Navigation methods and devices are described, in particular for use in vehicle navigation systems. If alternative 5 recommendation is needed, essentially only the information (40) necessary for driving an alternative section of the original route is transmitted from a traffic control center to the vehicle navigation system. This information represents essentially only deviations from the route calculated in the 10 vehicle navigation system.

(Figure 2)

435762